KONRAD WALLENROD.
AN HISTORICAL POEM.

By ADAM MICKIEWICZ.

Translated from the Polish into English Verse by Miss MAUDE ASHURST BIGGS.

EXTRACT FROM TRANSLATOR'S PREFACE.—"As to the conditions under which the poem was written, it is, perhaps, needful to state that it was composed by Mickiewicz during the term of his banishment into Russia, and was first published at St. Petersburg in the year 1828. . . . The end and aim of this, as of all the works of Mickiewicz, is to show us a great and noble soul, noble in spite of many errors and vices, striving to work out a high ideal, and the fulfilment of a noble purpose; and to exhibit the heroism of renunciation of personal ease and enjoyment for the sake of the world's or a nation's good."

Fcap. 8vo. parchment, pp. 62, with Six Plates after designs by A. VON WERNER. Price 3s. 6d.

MOUNTAIN PSALMS.

By JOSEPH VICTOR VON SCHEFFEL.

Translated from the German by Mrs. FRANCIS BRÜNNOW, Translator of "The Trumpeter of Sakkingen." Translation authorized by the Poet.

"Mrs. Brünnow has succeeded in translating very literally, yet into vigorous English, the Berg-psalmen of Joseph Victor von Scheffel. The get up of the book is faultless, and the illustrations, from designs by Anton von Werner, are the same as in the small German edition."—The Tablet.

TRÜBNER'S COLLECTION OF SIMPLIFIED GRAMMARS OF THE PRINCIPAL ASIATIC AND EUROPEAN LANGUAGES.

EDITED BY E. H. PALMER, M.A.

The object of this Series is to provide the learner with a concise but practical introduction to the various languages, and at the same time to furnish students of comparative philology with a clear and comprehensive view of their structure. The attempt to adapt the somewhat cumbrous grammatical system of the Greek and Latin to every other tongue has introduced a great deal of unnecessary difficulty into the study of languages. Instead of analyzing existing locutions and endeavouring to discover the principles which regulate them, writers of grammars have for the most part constructed a frame work of rules on the old lines, and tried to make the language of which they were treating fit into it. Where this proves impossible the difficulty is met by lists of exceptions and irregular forms, thus burdening the pupil's mind with a mass of details of which he can make no practical use.

In these grammars the subject is viewed from a different standpoint: the structure of each language is carefully examined, and the principles which underlie it are carefully explained; while apparent discrepancies and so-called irregularities are shown to be only natural euphonic and other changes. All technical terms are excluded unless their meaning and application is self-evident; no arbitrary rules are admitted; the old classification into declensions, conjugations, etc., and even the usual paradigms and tables, are omitted. Thus reduced to the simplest principles, the Accidence and Syntax can be thoroughly comprehended by the student on one perusal, and a few hours' diligent study will enable him to analyze any sentence in the language.

Now Ready. Crown 8vo. cloth, pp. 112. Price 5s.

SIMPLIFIED GRAMMAR OF HINDŪSTĀNĪ, PERSIAN, AND ARABIC.

By E. H. PALMER, M.A.;

Lord Almoner's Professor of Arabic in the University of Cambridge, and Examiner in Hindustani to H. M. Civil Service Commission.

The following are in preparation:—

ROUMANIAN, by M. Torceanu, of Bucharest.

TURKISH, by J. W. Redhouse, M.R.A.S.

MALAY, by W. E. Maxwell, of Inner Temple, Barrister-at-Law.

FINNIC, by Prof. Otto Donner, of Helsingfors.

SWEDISH, by W. Sturzen-Becker, of Stockholm.

SINGHALESE, by B. Gunasékhara, Mudalyar and Chief Translator of the Colonial Secretary's Office at Colombo, and H. C. R. Bell, Secretary of the Royal Asiatic Society, Ceylon Branch.

Mr. TRÜBNER is making arrangements with competent Scholars for the early preparation of Grammars of ALBANIAN, SIAMESE, BURMESE, JAPANESE, CHINESE, and ICELANDIC.

"In the 'Simplified Grammar of Hindustani, Persian, and Arabic,' by E. H. Palmer, M.A., we have the earliest of a series of improved and abbreviated Grammars, at once most interesting and useful, which is to be extended over the whole range of important languages. The object will be to provide a concise but practical introduction to each tongue for students, and at the same time to furnish comparative philologists with a clear and easy view of their structure. The accomplished author of the first specimen of the design, in boldly grouping the Semitic Arabic with Hindustani and Persian, sweeps away all the old verbiage of the grammarians, and reduces Accidence and Syntax to the simplest principles."—Daily Telegraph.

"The structure of each language will be examined and its principles explained; apparent discrepancies will be shown to be really natural changes; technical terms, unless their meaning and application are self-evident, will be excluded; the old classification into declensions and conjugations, and the usual paradigms and tables, will be omitted; and it is hoped that, with the aid of the new system, the pupil will find it an incomparably easier task than before to master the Accidence and the Syntax of a given language."—Saturday Review.

"A great boon to students and young beginners in the study of these languages, and for candidates for the Indian Civil Services, and military officers in their examinations in India, is well adapted to afford great help, as indeed to all those who contemplate studying Oriental languages."—United Service Gazette.

"The present series is written in English, as little technical as possible, so that the mere amateur or beginner in Orientalism, whether from pleasure or any other cause, as well as the professed student, will be able to find immediate assistance. Moreover, the low price at which they are published places within the reach of all that which the high prices usually charged formerly confined to the few."—Bookseller.

THE COINS OF THE JEWS.

Being a History of the Jewish Coinage and Money in the Old and New Testaments.

By FREDERIC W. MADDEN, M.R.A.S.

Member of the Numismatic Society of London, Secretary of the Brighton College, etc., etc.

With 279 Woodcuts and a Plate of Alphabets.

This work constitutes the mature development of the author's earlier studies, which secured for him a European reputation as a Numismatist, for his preliminary publication of 1864.

Every effort has been made to bring it up to the critical knowledge of the day, in the several chapters on the earliest Coinage of the Jews and those on the varying fortunes to which their sacred city was subjected by foreign conquest—from time to time—up to the destruction of Jerusalem by Titus, and the erection of Ælia Capitolina by Hadrian.

Great attention has been paid to the Chronology, and an Historical Commentary has been interwoven, as far as possible, with the purely Numismatic portion of the work.

"There can be no doubt that, in its present form, Mr. Madden's Essay gives the most complete account possible of 'Jewish Money' up to the present time. In a careful study we have instituted into it—with a comparison of it with his first edition—we have not detected the omission of a single reference of any importance."—The Times, 12th April, 1882.

"Mr. Madden's book, which we may fairly call the most complete treatise upon Jewish coins which has yet appeared in any country. The writer has been long a labourer in this field. . . . Mr. Madden has done his work with scholarlike thoroughness, and has produced a book, which will, we believe, long remain the locus classicus of the subject of Jewish Numismatics."—The Saturday Review, Nov. 26, 1881.

"A magnificent work, containing a mass of information drawn from the best and latest sources respecting all subjects directly and indirectly connected with the coins of the Jews. . . . Little requires to be said of the historical commentary interwoven with the purely numismatic; it teems with evidences of the extensive and conscientious research of the author. . . . It is this thoroughness which constitutes the personal stamp of the author. . . . The book is 'up to date' and as useful to the historical student as to the professed numismatist; the chapter on writing, with its excellent plate of alphabets, may be especially recommended."—Rev. T. K. Cheyne, The Academy, 12 Nov. 1881.

"In many respects the book has been so much enlarged, and we venture to think improved, that it may almost take rank as a new work. . . . To the numismatist a work like the present is of special value, but we think that the ordinary student who neither knows nor cares in the smallest degree for coins as tangible objects for study or collection, will find much to reward him for a perusal of the non-numismatic parts of the volume, while to the theologian, and especially to the student of Jewish history, much of the information here contained is almost indispensable."—Nature.

KANT'S CRITIQUE OF PURE REASON.

A CRITICAL EXPOSITION.

By GEORGE S. MORRIS, Ph.D.,

Professor of Ethics, History of Philosophy and Logic in the University of Michigan, and Lecturer on Philosophy in the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore.

This Series, each volume of which will be devoted to the critical exposition of some one masterpiece of German Philosophy, will be completed in about twelve volumes, and will include the works of Leibnitz, Kant, Fichte, Schelling and Hegel. The following volumes are in preparation—Kant's Ethics, by President Porter; Kant's Critique of Judgment, by Prof. R. Adamson; Schelling's Transcendental Idealism, by Prof. J. Watson; Hegel's Logic, by Dr. W. T. Harris; and Hegel's Æsthetics, by Prof. J. S. Keane.

"The philosopher's reasoning is reproduced in clear language, chapter by chapter, and the criticisms appended are often incisive and instructive. A book like this is almost indispensable to the average student of Kant, with whom it is a common experience to encounter pages which at first convey hardly any meaning, but which after being perused in the language of a lucid expositor who is familiar with the whole system, at once become so clear that the reader wonders he did not see the point before."—The Nation.

1846—1850. ANNEXATION OF TEXAS—COMPROMISE OF 1850.

Translated by JOHN J. LALOR and PAUL SHOREY.

"With the same minuteness of detail and the same calm impartiality that were displayed in his previous volumes, the author analyses the motives and conduct of all the prominent actors on the stage of American politics. . . . For Americans themselves this work is of priceless value, for it treats, with as much honesty and accuracy as candour, questions which their own publicists and historians have touched only with gloved hands, and under the control of predilections which have invariably distorted their mental vision, and affected their capacity of judgment."—The Scotsman.

"Certainly the best book which any foreigner has written upon the United States, if, indeed, it is not the best book which has ever been written upon that subject, whether by foreigner or native."—The North American Review.

"The work is destined to be accepted by the world as the standard authority on American political history. It fills a place which is occupied by no other single work, and fills it so satisfactorily, that it is not probable that any other writer will soon seek to go over the ground that Professor von Holst has surveyed with such industrious and conscientious care."—New York Tribune.

"He brings out all the points in detail, but when he has done with the point he drops it. His political philosophy is of the best school. He is a constitutional liberal. He is not under the dominion of the pet dogmas of any school, even of liberalism. He is entirely emancipated from the dogmas of democracy. It would not be easy to mention any writer who discriminates more justly and constantly than he between true liberty and that spurious democracy which is only absolutism in its most modern disguise. The book will do much to educate that increasing class of thoughtful citizens who are prepared to learn rather than to have their prejudices flattered."—New York Times.

"The three volumes are now firmly established as one of the most important contributions to American history yet made."—Literary World (Boston).

GERMAN LIBRARY

Edited

by

DR. ALFRED HOLDER.

The publishing a collection of Original records of Ancient and Mediaeval Germany, irrespective of the language and dialect they are written in, needs no apology, if we keep in mind the increasing desire of the German nation to become more intimately acquainted with the life and doings of their past. A similar attempt has long and most successfully been made in the field of Classical and Foreign literature.

This series begins, as is but just, with the Germania of TACITUS, in a text-form faithfully representing the Archetype of the 8th century, the correctness of which has been corroborated by investigations of the editor, made with the aid of new manuscript materials after his revision of the year 1878.

Every deviation from the Archetype is marked by Italics.

EINHART'S Life of Charlemagne is grounded on original collations with the assistance of the important materials contained in the editions of Pertz-Waitz and Jaffé-Wattenbach.

The edition of BEOWULF gives in the first number a faithful fac-simile of the manuscript (copied by the editor during a stay of four weeks in London in 1876).

All that former scholars were able to decipher, but which is now illegible, is printed in Italics. — The original collation of Benjamin Thorpe of the year 1830, now in possession of the editor, has been of most important service to the latter. — Illegible individual letters are represented by an equal number of angular points □, erasures are placed between round brackets.

Prof. Dr. Piper has undertaken to edit OTFRID'S Metrical Gospels, and in a short preface, to which for the sake of brevity we refer the reader, has given particulars concerning his edition.

The text of IORDANIS "History of the Goths" is a faithful reconstruction on a diplomatic basis after a most thorough investigation of the original sources.

Besides the old Palatine codex destroyed by fire in 1880, but which the editor fortunately collated before that event, Parisian manuscripts have especially been consulted.

NITHARD'S History is edited according to a new collation

New Works. — Faust.

FAUST
VON GOETHE

(1790).

In der ursprünglichen Gestalt

neu herausgegeben

W. L. Holland

Professor an der Universität Tübingen.

Sm. 8 vo. (168 and X pages).

Edition on Common Paper: 1s. 4d.

Edition on Hand-made Paper: 4s. 6d.

This edition is a careful reprint of the first Faust by Goethe. The size of the volume and the arrangement of the sentences have been reproduced in exact accordance with the first copy now extremely rare. Pages and lines also correspond. The type used is that of the end of 18th century. Professor HOLLAND has supplied the new volume at the end with copious notes.

of the St. Magloire manuscript in Paris, which has again become accessible.

The publisher has endeavoured to produce these small volumes in the most tasteful manner at the lowest possible price.

Intended for publication in 1882:

A contribution to the History of German Mysticism

Edited by PHILIP STRAUCH.

8 vo. (CVI. 415 pages).

Price 12s.

The Revelations of Margaretha Ebner to Maria Medingen († 1351) are edited here for the first time, according to the Medingen manuscript of the year 1353 with reference to a manuscript of the British Museum as well as one of the library of prince Wallerstein. After them follows the correspondence of Heinrich of Nördlingen and some other mystics with Margaretha chronologically arranged, according to the above mentioned manuscript of the British Museum, which also contains the Revelations.

The Introduction gives an account of the manuscripts, their present condition, the language of these records and the lives of Margaretha and Heinrich of Nördlingen. In conclusion there is a running commentary to these writings in the form of notes.

Koberstein-Bartsch, Outlines of the History of German Literature (I. 5th Edition, page 413) calls the "Zimmerische Chronik": „Eine reiche Quelle für die Culturgeschichte im weitesten Sinne, Rechtsgeschichte, häusliches und öffentliches Leben, Mythologie und Volksglauben, Schwank und Novelle.“

Gervinus says in the 5th edition of his History of German Poetry Vol. II, page 532: „Seit der Veröffentlichung der Zimmerischen Chronik hat diese Seite [Hofnarren] der Lachlust des damaligen Zeitalters neue lebenvolle Illustrationen erhalten; die in absichtlicher Systematik als komische Zwischenspiele zur Ergetzlichkeit eingestreuten Allotria sind in den früheren Partien der Chronik vorzugsweise alte Sagen, in den letztern mehr Gespenster-, Spuk- und Teufelsgeschichten, in den mittlern aber, die in diesen Anfängen des 16 Jahrhunderts spielen, sind es Schwänke und schimpfliche Historien, die sich zumeist anknüpfen an professionierte Narren und „kurzweilige Räthe“, die mit Witzreden, Possenreissen und Schalkstreichen sich mit aller Welt, wie alle Welt mit ihnen, zu foppen suchen.“
